Winemaker Notes:

A pretty and precociously fruited vintage of Illahe, the '23 pours forth with a silken splendor of lavender-tinged cherry, strawberry, and fresh raspberry before showing off its savory side. We're reminded of the essence of fall mushrooms foraged among old growth Douglas fir—wonderfully Oregonian.

The 2023s have a similar structure to 2015s—a wonderful vintage with classic, age-worthy wines. But the '23s have more lift, brighter fruit, and the layers of complexity are more transparent, the Pinot Noirs more extroverted.
